THE CUMNOCK EXPLOSION.

Twenty-Two Men Was the Number

RAIDEIGH, N. C., May 23—Special.—At midnight iast night news came of an explosion at the Cunnock coal mines, forty-five miles from here. Definite news came at 3 o'clock this morning. Twenty-two men were instantly killed by an explosion of fire damp, supposed to be due to the broken gauge on a safety lamp.

The killed are John Connally, mine sup-erintendent; Joe Glass, William Tyson, James McCarthy, John Hankey. Wesley Clegg, John Williatt, Robert Gatewood (all white), Simon McIntyre, Dan Goldston, Joe Fagan, (Will Reeves, Robert Reeves, Albert Bynum, Joe Taylor, Jim Mack, John Palmer, Peter Palmer, James Palmer and John Hubbard (all colored).
Connally was from Pittsburg, Pa. He had been superintendent for three years. He leaves a wife and three children. The explosion occurred in the east heading. Fifty men were in the mine. None in the other parts of it were injured.

Only five were saved from the east building. All the bodies were recovered.
This is the third explosion at the mine. The former one occurred December 19th, 1895, when forty-three were killed by the explosion of 200 pounds of dynamite. The mine is over 500 feet deep. There was also an explosion in it in 1858.

Within an hour after the explosion the work of rescue began, and by daylight all the bodies except one, that of Sim McIntyre, had been brought to the top.
All the bodies were horribly burned.
Extensive improvements had recently been made, and the mines had since been thought free from fire damp. Pennsylvania capitalists own the property.

The mines are situated at Cumnock, in The mines are situated at Cumnock, in Chatham county, about six miles from Sanford. They have been long used in a desultory way, but in 1898 Samuel Ahensey, of Philadelphia, organized a company, and put in modren machinery.

There are two shafts—one a small affair for ventilation, and the other, the main working shaft, is Sx13 feet, and is considerably against the property in the statement of t erably more than 500 feet in depth.

Mr. Victor R. Rudd, brother of Mrs. G. H. Burrows, of No. 209 Carrington Street, in this city, was a contractor in the mines, working about forty men. Ventilatia Shoes.

Briefly described, the inside sole of the shoe is perfo rated. When the foot presses down upon it the foul, hot air surrounding the foot is forced out of the shoe through these perforations. It then passes between the inner and outer sole and is expelled through a tube that runs up between the counter leathers of the heel. This tube terminates in a small eyelet, and when the foot is raised and the pressure removed it is through this eyelet that the fresh air enters to replace the foul air which has just been ex-

Thus the foot, by its movements, is constantly acting as a piston pump to force out the bad air and replace it with pure air, establishing thereby a thorough and healthful ventilation. This is an advantage which no other shoe can offer. The lack of it in shoes of other makes is the cause of all existing troubles of the feet.
